To Whom It May Concern:

Through Central Michigan University's (CMU) partnership with The Connecting Link (TCL), K-12 teachers can enroll in TCL courses and earn three (3) hours of graduate-level credit through CMU.

The CMU graduate credit awarded for TCL courses is designed for use toward professional and standard certificate renewal and continuing education. The courses may substitute for regularly designed courses in degree programs if approved by the respective department.

TCL courses have an instructor of record who has been approved by CMU. TCL instructors are educators who hold master's or doctorate degrees and have five or more years of experience in their respective fields.
